

Dear UNHCR Representative in Aruba, Curaçao,

My name is Jessica Collins. I am a U.S. citizen currently in Bonaire. I am writing to request urgent protection and asylum.

I have been persecuted by U.S. officials and law enforcement in retaliation for exposing human trafficking crimes involving my daughter and myself. Because of this, I face imprisonment, retaliation, and danger if I am returned to the United States.

Below, I provide my full statement of background, persecution, and evidence in support of my request. I respectfully ask for your urgent attention to my request for asylum and protection under international law.

Thank you very much for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,

Jessica Collins

Formal Request for International Protection – Jessica Collins

Introduction

My name is Jessica Collins. I am a U.S. citizen, and I am seeking asylum because I have been persecuted by U.S. officials and law enforcement in retaliation for exposing trafficking crimes that involved my daughter and myself. I believe my life is in danger if I am forced to return to the United States.

Background of persecution

Public testimony and retaliation

In September 2019 I made a recorded video testimony describing trafficking and naming abuses by officials, which I published online to seek public accountability. In January 2020 I was criminally charged; I believe these charges were brought in retaliation for my public testimony. The video has been widely viewed; I have printouts and screenshots showing the platform, upload date, and the number of views/comments to corroborate this.

- In 2020, during the COVID emergency, I was falsely charged with crimes. These charges were later dropped, but not before I was declared “insane” and held in solitary confinement for one year.

- In 2022, I was again targeted with new false charges, including a DUI, despite major conflicts of interest. These charges were brought by Sheriff Joseph Gamble, a police official in Maryland who replaced Ed Norris. This follows the same pattern of fabricated charges used to discredit me.

- On January 16, 2025, I filed a federal lawsuit against the United States in Washington, D.C. documenting these abuses and the ongoing retaliation.

Family persecution and trafficking

- My daughter, Aisha, who was half-Palestinian, was trafficked as a child by officials. She was murdered in 2017. Her murder was connected to investigations that led to the shutdown of AlphaBay and Hansa Market.

- Because of my attempts to expose these crimes, I have been retaliated against repeatedly, with fabricated charges, imprisonment, and loss of my home in Virginia under pressure from corrupt real estate developers.

Evidence and public reporting

- These events have been documented in U.S. courts, including Maryland courts.
- Journalist Chris Dorsey has been covering my case publicly on social media since 2019.
- I carry court filings and documentation to support my claims.

Why I cannot return

- I am at serious risk of imprisonment, torture, and further retaliation by U.S. officials if I am returned.
- The persecution I face is directly tied to my role as a whistleblower and survivor of trafficking, and to the fact that I tried to seek justice for my daughter.
- I cannot receive protection in the United States, because the persecution comes from law enforcement and officials themselves.

Request

I respectfully ask the Kingdom of the Netherlands, through Bonaire, to grant me protection as a refugee. If I am sent back to the United States, I will face persecution, retaliation, and inhuman treatment.

I am prepared to provide documentation and evidence upon request, and I am available for any interview or meeting that may assist your office.
